Matters arising from the June management meeting:

1. Movement of the rocks behind the sea container is on hold while we sort out storage arrangements and seek the necessary funding.
2. The water leak in the female toilet has been fixed.
3. Ian Charlesworth will be giving a talk on musical horns on the 27th.
5. The four plastic pods to anchor the marquee are on order.
6. Henry has had a discussion with Switch your Thinking about our solar power options. It could be a somewhat long process.
7. Making up a list of member's skills for opening a repair shop is a work in progress. See Murray if you have skills to share.
8. The Shed's Annual General Meeting will be held on the 26th of September. Think about nominating to join the committee. Nomination forms will be sent out next month.
9. Jeff Cairns will carrying out the electrical work for lighting and power under the new carport shortly.
10. The tidy up in the workshop and meeting room is ongoing. Surplus equipment will be disposed of.
11. We are waiting for changes to our licence agreement with the City so that we can make a start on planning for the community garden.
12. Henry Is currently seeking quotes for installing decking at the back of the Shed overlooking the garden.

Neil helped David, or perhaps did most of the work, to make a rather unique barbecue. They used a stainless steel drum from an old dryer along with a ploughshare and other bits a pieces. It had its first test run last month cooking sausages for morning tea. I think the verdict by members was an excellent barbecue.

For the Shed's June talk, we had another visit from an old friend, Graham MacKellar of Carbatec. Graham's talk was on setting up and maintenance of a Band Saw. Graham gave very clear and concise explanations on how to set up the saw and how to make adjustments. He also explained the sort of things that could go wrong and why they occur. A big thankyou to Graham for sorting our saw out and setting it up, we look forward to him visiting
